Number of Judgeships: 19

The United States Tax Court hears disputes involving the Internal Revenue Service and deficiencies or overpayment of taxes. This court also has jurisdiction to redetermine excise taxes and penalties imposed on private foundations. Similar power over excise taxes is conferred to the court with regard to public charities, qualified pension plans and real estate investment trusts. The United States Tax Court judges are appointed by the President and confirmed by the Senate to 15-year terms. A chief judge is elected biennially by fellow judges. Both recalled and special trial judges serve at the pleasure of the court. Public trials are conducted by a single judge or a special trial judge. These rulings can be appealed to the United States Courts of Appeals and the Supreme Court of the United States.
